

S'firat Haomer

26b

Version 2

Samuel Alman
Arr. Stuart Izon

Samuel Alman's setting for S'firat Haomer is one of his most beloved compositions. Alman makes wonderful use of both chazzan and choir with some incredibly dramatic sections as well as some tender moments. Perplexingly, the final line before the b'racha (a reference from Psalm 90) is actually misquoted in Alman's published score. Historically, these words were never appended in Nusach Anglia (finishing at "mincha chadasha ladonai"), so perhaps Alman misremembered the quotation when he composed the piece, or perhaps there was some publishing error. Some arrangers have attempted to correct this by duplicating the musical phrase with the missing stitch, but this loses something of Alman's succinct drama. Instead, I have reset the words to best fit Alman's original music.
