

Shoshanat Ya'akov

407c

Version 2

Trad./Harry Coopersmith
Arr. Stuart Izon

The motifs for this melody are of unknown authorship. The earliest printed version of it appears in Harry Coopersmith's 1938 publication "Songs of My People", where it is described as being adapted by Coopersmith from folk tunes. The text for this version includes the lines "Cursed be the wicked; blessed be all the righteous", and misses out some lines present in other melodies.
