

Esa Einai

95a

Version 2

Charles Garland Verrinder
Arr. Stuart Izon

This classic setting of Psalm 121 is by Charles Garland Verrinder, organist of the West London Synagogue during the late 19th century. Though Verrinder was a practicing Anglican, he composed a number of pieces for the synagogue, Esa Einai being his most famous. I don't believe it was written for any particular occasion, but it is a favourite at Remembrance Day services and has inevitably developed a strong association.
